The switch was at midnight. If a station was in the middle of a network program at midnight, the station was authorized to continue airing the program to its conclusion.

I thought the switch was made that Saturday at midnight. On the NFL telecast the next day, Fox made mention that three stations joined the network--WTVT in Tampa, WAGA in Atlanta and WITI in Milwaukee.

this should be the 29th March not the 31st as I have a video of Thames Television's airing of an officer and a gentleman from that day

This was the show ( this and "Top of the Pops" ) that was hosted by the late Jimmy Savile. One of the BIGGEST scandals to had taken place in the UK for generations involved Savile. Do a google search about this since there is so much out there such as this....

<http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/ukne...-hospital.html>

and this...

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Jimmy\_...\_abuse\_scandal

Anyway long story short...do not expect to see "Jim'll Fix It" in reruns anytime soon.

It was the day before Labor Day. Who aired the Jerry Lewis Telethon (or was it not cleared in Greensboro)?

I check the listings and the telethon aired only on cable here, via WGN and WWOR.

Why is Sonic The Hedgehog is on KSKN 22 at 6:00 AM and not the Super Mario Bros. I hate Sonic with a passion, because why does Sonic get to be on almost every over the air station that has aired The Lionhearts and Mario only gets to be on half of them? I want Super Mario Bros. cartoons on every OTA station that aired The Lionhearts so freaking badly, I WANT IT!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

I'll try to post KYW's first week as a CBS affiliate as soon as possible.

UPDATE: KYW Actually carried NBC News Nightside at 5:00am on Mon-Fri during that week.

ANOTHER CORRECTION: NBC Actually aired First Person With Maria Shriver at 10pm on Wednesday September 5, 1995 that night.

ONE MORE CORRECTION: It's Actually "On Scene: Emergency Response" that the station was actually showing at 6am on Saturdays at the time. Sorry about all of these corrections I'm making here.

8pm 2 Mysterious Man of the Dhroud

That should be Mysterious Man of the Shroud.

Kind of odd that WNJU aired Maureen Hickley, Kenneth Copeland, and Creflo Dollar weekday mornings despite being Telemundo's east coast flagship! I wonder if they were in English or dubbed Spanish

They were probably dubbed in Spanish. And it's Marilyn Hickey.

That was before WNJU Telemundo 47 became 24-7 Spanish.

Looks like WJW was Cleveland's home for "Trash TV" in 1999 with Jerry Springer, Ricki Lake, and Maury back to back to back

Looking back, now it sure seems that way. However, that was the line up on most FOX stations. Most of those talk shows ended up on UPN/WB (Now, CW and MyTV)

Retro: Boston - Friday, November 22, 1963

Source – Boston Globe – Friday November 22, 1963

This is the schedule on the day of the JFK assassination. Obviously everything got preempted after the reports from Dallas started coming in. Note that WBZ was off-network at the time (running Mike Douglas, and I'm not sure if that was the live feed from Cleveland) so I don't know at what point they joined NBC.

I'm not sure what educational stations did after the news came in. I do know that WGBH was equipped to take feeds from the networks for various public affairs programs that weren't being cleared by the local affiliates. If anyone can clarify this please do.

Most appropriate that you would put up the schedules for JFK's part of the country. If you have the Saturday and Sunday schedules, I wouldn't mind seeing them.

Since I'm not from Boston, I don't know how WGBH handled the coverage of the assassination and its aftermath; after all, Boston had three network affiliates. It's not like our situation in Raleigh, with an ABC station (WRAL) and a CBS one (WTVD), but no fulltime NBC affiliate. In our case, WUNC, the educational (as public television was called in 1963) channel carried NBC's coverage.

I wonder if anybody can tell me how the CBS situation was handled in Birmingham, where there was an ABC station (WBRC) and a station that favored NBC news (WAPI, now WVTM), but no fulltime CBS affiliate (and Cronkite wasn't carried there). Likewise, ABC was likely blacked out in Charlotte, with WBTV (CBS) and WSOC (NBC) but no ABC station until 1964.

Douglas was always on tape in Boston (Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Baltimore and Boston were always one week behind) - the tapes were bicycled from market to market. Buffalo for example might have gotten the tapes from Boston and then send them to Columbus)

It appears only CBS was network at the time that was feeding programming.

WGBH-TV had just moved into Western Ave a couple of months earlier and they indeed had a two telco lines from New England Telephone on Franklin St which was the switching center for AT&T long lines.

NBC and ABC went local at 1:30p - they didn't want to compete with "As The World Turns".

The first WBZ-4 bulletin was a local one at about 1:40.

I don't know who voiced it; it could have been Jim Jensen (a news anchor there at the time), or either Lindy Miller or Dick Tucker (both of whom were booth announcers at WBZ then).

I remember this because I was a month shy of my 8th birthday and my kid brother (age 4 1/2) and I were indeed watching "Mike Douglas".

My brother and I woke our Mom up yelling that "The President's Been Shot!".

But by the time she got up, WBZ had (briefly) returned to "Mike Douglas", and she yelled at us for saying something in bad taste, screaming "If President Kennedy had really been shot, they wouldn't be running 'Mike Douglas'...".

But as soon as she finished "Douglas", a second bulletin, this time from NBC (I think it would be 1:45) came on.

She apologized to us.

I believe NBC made it's coverage available to independent and noncommercial stations, and that WGBH-2 picked it up.

This era was when NBC and WHDH-TV were holding hands as NBC despised Westinghouse.

WBZ-TV didn't clear Meet The Press and Channel 5 fed a show to the entire NBC network on Saturday. (plus 5 ran the Tonight Show as Group W had Steve Allen)

However the HT never got the permanent license so NBC never made the change.

And, if the WHDH deal didn't happen NBC was trying to buy WNAC from RKO General. That fell through because NBC wanted to use WRCV Philadelphia in a trade while the Department of Justice was deciding whether to return the station to Westinghouse.

Not exactly. The stations NBC would have traded to RKO would have been WRC AM-FM-TV in Washington. The mess with Westinghouse in Philadelphia and Cleveland indeed held up the WRC/WNAC swap and eventually killed it.

I remember seeing in Broadcast magazine at some point NBC proposed trading the Philly stations for WNAC AM/FM/TV and then doing a cash deal for WRC AM/FM/TV. That could have been just a rumor or someone throwing out a possibility. Either way it didn't happen, despite years of trying.

Actually Washington AND Philly were in the mix.

In 1959, RKO and NBC reached an agreement on what would have been the highest-priced license transfer in broadcasting history to that time. The deal would have seen RKO acquire NBC's WRC-AM-FM-TV in Washington, swap WNAC-AM-TV and WRKO-FM (the former WNAC-FM) in Boston to NBC for that company's WRCV-AM-TV in Philadelphia, and sell the WGMS stations in Washington to Crowell-Collier Broadcasting (as Federal Communications Commission (FCC) regulations at that time would not permit ownership of both the WRC stations and the WGMS stations).

NBC just wanted to be rid of Westinghouse. I surmise NBC then would have gone after another market as they would have an open slot.

Years later Jerry Williams took a job at WRC-AM thinking it had a powerful signal which of course was wrong.

As I suspected NBC did have another market in its sights. San Francisco.

Took FIVE years to play out

Stupid question - why didn't NBC just award the affiliation to WNAC at a point when the contract with WBZ was up? Were they wary of RKO General's history of preemptions of afternoon programming for movies? Or did they just think they could muscle a deal so that wasn't necessary?

Hard to believe that NBC would give up an O & O in Washington, DC.

I remember this because I was a month shy of my 8th birthday and my kid brother (age 4 1/2) and I were indeed watching "Mike Douglas".

My brother and I woke our Mom up yelling that "The President's Been Shot!".

But by the time she got up, WBZ had (briefly) returned to "Mike Douglas", and she yelled at us for saying something in bad taste, screaming "If President Kennedy had really been shot, they wouldn't be running 'Mike Douglas'...".

But as soon as she finished "Douglas", a second bulletin, this time from NBC (I think it would be 1:45) came on.

She apologized to us.

I believe NBC made it's coverage available to independent and noncommercial stations, and that WGBH-2 picked it up.

how did Mike Douglas handle the situation? did he stop the show?

i heard a interview with Mike Douglas and he said that John Dancy came into the studio to announce the shooting Mike said he tried to go to another segment he gave up switching to Frank McGee he said they had to tape 22 minutes that day

Not sure what NBC was doing before they started covering the shooting though

Local in the east, Missing Links in the west.

How is it that in the Dallas listings for 11/22/63 (posted elsewhere) that Route 66's episode was "A Cage In Search Of A Bird" and everywhere else it was "Kiss The Monster, Make Him Sleep"?

Also not true.

The ABC "live feed" of FKB was 12:30-1:00 PM ET.

What is on the YouTube video was recorded from a downline affiliate which delayed FKB a hour into the half-hour local hole for ABC daytime at 1:30-2:00 PM ET. I have yet to figure out which station it was. Notice on the playback whenever said station cuts from their video tape to ABC live (for a news bulletin), or back to the video tape, the video rolls all over the place, as this was years before frame synchronizers were even thought of for local stations.

Actually, WFAA was in local programming. It was The Julie Benell Show. I don't know whether the show was live or on tape.

At first, I would have voted for on tape, since the tape on YouTube breaks up all over the place when WFAA-TV switches from the talk show to Jay Watson live in studio with the station's first JFK bulletin. But wait...it shouldn't have broken up (as it would have on a switch from local to network) since WFAA's tape machines and studio cameras should have been on the same (local) synch.

And then there's the background noise in the seconds before the switch--probably setting up Watson to do his thing in another part of the studio. That would indicate to me that the talk show was live. So I can't explain the synch break up at the switch. Any long-time WFAAers still around to shed some more light?

And David Von Pein's YouTube channel has both WFAA local & ABC national coverage (Two different videos but the coverage eventually becomes one once ABC & WFAA hook up for then-unprecedented coverage even though DVP has both ABC national & WFAA local coverage on his channel)

The coverage from WFAA & ABC on TV could only be rivaled by WFAA & NBC on radio (But of course in the early hours of coverage, people in Dallas could only hear NBC Radio via WBAP even though WFAA Radio was the NBC Radio affiliate

...both WFAA and WBAP were affiliated with the ABC and NBC radio networks. WBAP and WFAA were still sharing two frequencies, 570 kHz (5,000 watts) and 820 kHz (50,000 watts), in an arrangement that had its roots in the 1920s, trading freqs every six hours at 3:00 and 9:00 AM and 3:00 and 9:00 PM. ABC affiliation stayed with the 570 frequency, whereas NBC was always heard on 820; at the time of the assassination, WFAA was on 570 and WBAP on 820. Both ABC and NBC relied more heavily on WFAA for reportage, as they were owned by the Dallas Morning News and their studios were a couple of blocks away from Dealey Plaza, while WBAP was owned by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and its studios were 30 miles to the west...

Actually, it was a little more complicated than that, King. There were multiple flips during the day and prime-time hours were allocated by day of the week.

This article includes a reprint of a 1931 schedule for (then) 800kc -- this link is the full article from which that reprint was taken -- and this page has a scan of an actual 3:00pm-to-midnight seven-day grid for WFAA from the 1960s.

The arrangement lasted until May 1, 1970. On that date, WBAP's purchase of the portion of 820kHz they did not already own was consummated and they went full-time on that frequency. That deal included WFAA receiving ownership of the portion of 570kHz they didn't already have.

...many thanks for the correction, KMR. And I notice on those pages that both station had FM sisters -- Classical WBAP-FM on 96.3 and Easy Listening WFAA-FM at 97.9. I still wonder exactly what the FMs did that afternoon, as simply simulcasting the AMs would wind up interrupting reports from each network at trade-off time. It would probably have made more sense to have the FMs match up with the affiliations of the TV stations, with WBAP-FM going with NBC and WFAA-FM running ABC. But I've never found out what happened on that end of things...

I suspect that answer is lost to history, King. FM was still relatively new, most of its audience was audiophiles at that point, and no one would have bothered to note what happened. Unless we can find former staffers of those stations -- and even if they were still fairly young (in their 20s) when Kennedy was assassinated, they'd be in their early 70s in the best case scenario. It's more likely that those who know have carried that knowledge to their graves already. Unfortunate, because it is an interesting unanswered question.

If the suggestion was that Batchelor Father was on the entire ABC network at the time of the first network bulletin, that claim is false. Only a selected few stations, such as WABC-TV in New York and a few other Owned and operated stations carried Batchelor Father and some of them carried it on a delayed basis. The other affiliates carried either syndicated or local programming. WFAA-TV in Dallas was not carrying Batchelor Father but was instead airing a live, locally produced program called The Julie Benell Show. The program was interrupted when Program Jay Watson came on to announce the shooting in Deally Plaza.

I made a similar comment earlier in this thread--that the live feed for Bachelor Father on ABC was 12:30-1:00 PM ET.

For example: KTVK Phoenix and KGUN-TV Tucson both aired the show "live" from 10:30-11:00 AM MT. BTW, neither was an O&O.

Any later airing (such as 1:30-2:00 PM ET) was via tape delay at an individual station.

Save AM radio...kill I-CRAP.

I'm thinking the show we're talking about is Father Knows Best on ABC, not Bachelor Father on NBC.

The recording of Father Knows Best does sort of look like it's a recording of the network feed and not of the station's output. (And why WOULD they record their output?) For instance, at the end of the show after the network promo/ID, they don't cut to a local break or even a station ID. If one station had been feeding the show to another, you wouldn't have seen the network cut-ins.

Didn't ABC operate on Clock Time in the early 60s? If that's the case, it could have been recorded at any station in the Central time zone.

Correct. Douglas was interviewing a government official (and later first HUD secretary), Robert Weaver, at the time. While talking to him, he could see Dancy (then known as "Bud") walking down through the studio bleachers, out of the corner of his eye. Obviously a little flustered from the oddity of Dancy doing that, he asked what was going on...

Was any pro wrestling aired in this country?

Are you referring to WWE?

Only local wrestling shows meant for kids. 100% Lucha (2006-2010) was the latest that had the most success.

The only exception was when Canal 9 aired Raw and Smackdown (international 60 min. versions) on weekend mornings between 2006 and 2009, with the PPVs being shown on a one week delay on Sundays at noon. All three were bumped to weekdays at 1:30-4:30am (an assortment of new and old episodes) in late 2009 before being dumped altogether in January 2010. American wrestling hasn't been shown on terrestrial TV ever since, with Raw and Smackdown being shown live and unedited (save for a Spanish narration) from the US on FOX Sports 2 and the PPVs also live on FOX Action (a premium film channel belonging to the FOX+ channel suite, a Latin American equivalent of Starz).

WWJ 62 - CBS

11:00 Late Show with David Letterman (was 62 airing it delayed from the day before?)

No. CBS provided the same day show to WGPR/WWJ 30 minutes earlier than the rest of the network.

I lived in Detroit at the time and remember seeing the show. When WGPR first switched to CBS, they heavily promoted Letterman at the earlier time. The newspaper even did stories about the "special arrangement" with CBS.

I don't know at what point they started airing Letterman at 11:35. It was probably in 2001 when they briefly tried an 11 PM newscast.

Maybe they received a special early feed.

Kind of odd that the Blade had WWJ since it's the weakest of the Detroit stations (it's not carried in Bedford [Detroit DMA] while most other Detroit stations are (including both WMYD and WKBD))

I realize I messed up and it's too late to edit: Ann Curry was still anchoring NBC News at Sunrise at that point in 1996, not Linda Vester.

I imagine that Elizabeth Taylor got a lot of money to appear in those shows.

It was a thinly-veiled ruse to hawk her perfume.

Here's what I think KSKN aired what was Non-HSN programming that day...

7:00 am - Blinky Bill

7:30 am - Bananas in Pajamas

8:00 am - Sailor Moon

8:30 am - California Dreams

Thanks! I always forget about that period of KSKN.

Some in Spokane don't realize that Charles Rowe was a major market anchor in Chicago and Los Angeles before anchoring in Spokane. A true talent.

Spokane was lucky to have Charles Rowe and Randy Shaw as long as we did. They (and Richard Brown, who wasn't here as long as the other two) were world class broadcasters.

Kind of odd seeing The Simpsons on a Big Three station, especially one on VHF

And it was on KREM for two or three seasons, until KREM began their SSA with KSKN.

Can you also post listings for the Independents..

Detroit:

WXON Ch. 20

WKBD Ch. 50

WGPR Ch. 62

Toledo:

WUPW Ch. 36

I don't recall the $1,000,000 chance of a lifetime. WTOL always did pretty well considering it had competition from another affiliate in Detroit. I didn't know they had Wheel of Fortune/Jeopardy back then. Thanks for posting this.

I made a mistake. I meant to say that the three episodes of the Charades game show Body Language that Vicki Lawrence & Ted Lange did together originally respectively aired on December 30, 1985, January 2, 1986, and January 3, 1986. My bad.

anabate123, I'll get to that eventually.

I'm guessing that ch. 2 carried the WWF at 11am in those days.

Yep, they did...WJBK had WWF syndicated shows right through the early years of their Fox affiliation. On Saturdays, it was "Superstars of Wrestling".

Was WUPW even on the air in '86? I moved to Toledo in '88 and it seems to me they were a fairly new station at that time.

They first went on the air in September 1985; from this link from the Vintage Toledo TV site, WUPW was in TV Guide (at least in the Toledo-Lima edition, which also included listings from Detroit, Fort Wayne, and Dayton) from day one. I would imagine the same happened with the Detroit edition.

Retro: New York City TV Schedules - Commercial Independents - Week of 9-4-72

This also from New Jersey Herald - September 3, 1972 edition as well as the September 10 1972 edition for SUNDAY. - The Network stations had little special programming on Labor Day except for ABC but that was mostly Olympics coverage which they would have had anyway. But the independent stations had quite a bit of special programming. Channel 5 had the Labor Day Telethon the entire day. Channels 9 and 11 had quite a bit of sports programming that day. Here they are

Channel 5 would pick it up after falling off WPIX in 1978 - one of several shows airing at different points on all 3 independents - Also Gilligan's Island fell off WOR TV in 1971 and went to WPIX by now and would move to WNEW TV in 1978)

Then the next year this news crew would move to Noon giving new York City its first Noon Newscast being the Network stations were O & O's and committed to Network offerings well into the late 80's. Until then Channel 9 had the only midday live newscast and it was a success - The reason I think they dumped the 10 PM Newscast was because of the large amount of sports run on the station in prime time. The news would be preempted more than it aired.)

WOR TV was in transition from a traditional independent focusing on broad based entertainment to a station focusing more on old movies, sports, game shows, and drama shows. cartoons were about to fall off WOR TV one by one and sitcoms soon followed. WOR TV at this point sought to counter program against WNEW TV and WPIX and did so successfully.

Channel 5 offered fewer movies than the rest and they tended to be older ones. Part of the reason was first run shows were on in prime time like Merv and News. Merv in Prime Time was a Metromedia thing. Most Metromedia Stations ran fewer movies than most independents. Metromedia tended to rely heavily on sitcoms for their stations. Channel 5 was the leading independent with WPIX somewhat behind and WOR TV was the also ran.

Re: Retro: New York City TV Schedules - Commercial Independents - Week of 9-4-72

How long did WOR have the pre-'48 a.a.p.-syndicated Warners' toons in the period up to '72? I know their first appearance was on what was then WABD in the mid-'50's . . .

Also:

- The 10 P.M. newscast WOR had back then was called News Digest; after it moved to 5 P.M. it became First News.
- The Mr. Magoo 'toons by 1979 were at WPIX.
- Fright Night did not exist until 1973; their late Saturday night/early Sunday morning horror movie skein in those days was known as Tales of Terror.
- I don't know about the Sunday 5 P.M. movie, but the 7 P.M. movie skein went under The Big Preview umbrella; their late Sunday night/early Monday morning movie at midnight was branded the Sunday Night Showcase.
- The Eight O'Clock Movie title didn't apply to WPIX's movie at that time until the end of 1974; their skein back then was called Friday's Movie at Eight.
- The movie skein that ran Abbott & Costello movies on Sunday afternoons was actually called Sunday's Movie at Noon, after moving to 11:30 A.M. in '73 (with Hot Butter's "Popcorn" as the theme) it was re-branded the Sunday Morning Movie.
- After Eastside Comedy (whose theme music as of 1973 was Vic Mizzy's "One Little, Two Little, Three Little Tombstones" music cue from The Addams Family), WNEW's Sunday movie block was: Five Star Movie, followed by Metromedia Movie and (at 6 P.M., after Rawhide) Sunday Playhouse (later to become Weekend Playhouse).
- The announcers for the indies back then would have been as follows: WNEW-TV - Tom Gregory, Ed Ladd, Fred Scott, Lou Steele, plus (part-timer) Bob Jones and possibly Barbara Korsen; WOR-TV - Russ Dunbar, Frank McCarthy, Phil Tonken, Ted Mallie and (possibly) Fred Maness; probably Bob Jordan, plus P/T'ers Cable Spence and Jim Lounsbury, and probably (at this early point)

Connecticut-based freelancer Ray Marlin; WPIX - (that I know of) Bill Biery, Joe Bolton, Roy Whitfield (Ralph Lowenstein did not join the station as an announcer until 1974) - did 11 have other staff announcers besides these names as of '72?

Re: Retro: New York City TV Schedules - Commercial Independents - Week of 9-4-72

My guess is that WOR TV had pre 48 Warner Brothers Cartoons from the late 60's to about 1973 when they quietly went to WNEW TV.

Did not know the name of WOR TV newscasts for those are not listed in TV Guide. Also the same with other titles so I could be wrong about many of the titles. Mister Magoo fell off WOR TV in 1977 sometime and went to WPIX in the Fall of 1978. So many shows that fell off WOR TV went other places while some like the Beverly hillbillies did not

Notice that Columbia's CBS affiliate aired Andy Griffith (which was and still is very popular in the South) instead of an 11pm newscast

I don't know when, but the WLTX's 11pm was introduced in the early 1990s.

And that WIS had news in all four dayparts. The reason why WIS was (and still is) #1.

Was WIS benefited for having a 7pm newscast or was benefited because it's on a VHF frequency?

WWAY 3 - ABC Wilmington

11:00 Mike and Maty

Scheduled: actor Jonathan Winters; actor Christopher Burke; Hawaiian cuisine; actress Deidre Hall.

11:30 Rush Limbaugh

So Mike and Maty aired for a half-hour in Wilmington?

According to the paper, it looks like channel 3 aired just a half-hour. I don't know why, but I remember that the program was preempted in larger markets, like Boston.

Interesting. As late as 1985, Buenos Aires, had only five TV stations, all VHF. Buenos Aires is the fourth largest metro area in the Americas, between NYC, #3, and LA, #5.

They all sign on in late morning (no local version of the Today Show or Good Morning America). Only two stay on the air past 1 am. Channel 2 uses many U.S. shows, with 7 and 9 using some. 11 and 13 use none, but they do air a lot of soap operas.

I see that 11 signs on with the Mexican version of Sesame Street. It never occurred to me that it isn't simply a Spanish-language version. But then, I guess the accents are different. I suppose Mexico supplies a lot of programming to other Latin American countries.

The Mexican accent is very different from the Argentine, but Televisa long ago learned the art of doing neutral Spanish so they could syndicate product. The major difference between countries is language usage, so they have to carefully write all scripts, too.

Colombia, which has the most "pure" Spanish in the Hemisphere syndicates lots of programming in upper South America and Central America, too. Argentina, with its different verb usage and very unusual accent, does not export much programming except to Southern Cone nations as it is difficult for others to understand.

As has been said, "Twenty countries separated by a single language".

Of course, many of these countries send their channels via satellite to the USA, so we get these different countries' accents on their respective cable channels. I hear different forms of Spanish spoken in my home town of Boston, so I know how it feels.

Did The Professionals air in the U.S.? Here in Argentina had a moderate success; the opposite happened with Dallas and Dynasty, which were two of the most watched shows through the 1980s.

Three runs of Jerry Springer on WTTV? And one at 5PM? That must have been startling for children, going from WB Kids and cereal/toy ads, to strippers fighting and brawling each other.

And 1 1/2 hours of infomercials on WXIN, midday no less. They could have put Arrest and Trial/Charlie's Angels etc. at 1-2:30, and swapped 3AM for infomercials like everyone else!

The 5pm airing of Springer on WTTV lasted for years. For example, the 1998 schedule posted last month:

<https://www.radiodiscussions.com/show...ay-May-19-1998>

I can't remember when Springer moved to WXIN. It might not have been until Tribune purchased WTTV in '02.

This day was also the last day WRTV was really a player in the Indianapolis news market. For most if not all of the time since Clyde and Dion left, WRTV's evening and late news has been in 4th place.

Airing the World Cup Final live was optional due to the time difference. It did air live in Memphis on WPTY/WATN. Did any other stations opt out? And why couldn't they simulcast it on ESPN?

Also, what did WDZL/WSFL 39 air that day?

No way to escape the Communist propaganda in the GDR! Either you had Aktuelle Kamera or The Black Channel

Funnily enough, Venezuela has plenty of that kind of programmes on state TV, and Argentina even had its 6-day-a-week, 90-minute-long "this is how the private/foreign media lies" programme on state TV from 2009 to 2015 until the change of government forced its way out.

So how could an NBC affiliate air ABC's college football games? Did any other stations do that?

So how could an NBC affiliate air ABC's college football games? Did any other stations do that?

At the time, Steubenville/Wheeling didn't have its own ABC station

Also, WYTV and WTRF had secondary FOX affiliations (mostly for NFL games) at this time

Do you know if KDKA aired the ABC saturday cartoon lineup or was an error of the paper?

How did a CBS affiliate air One Saturday Morning, instead of ABC?, that is unusual.

Maybe because WTAE preempted all ABC weekend morning programming.

WPCQ has some real oddities: a show (a game show no less) between the local and national news, no 11pm newscast (so they could show Benny Hill!). I decided to look up this station, and the next year they would drop the national news altogether. I wonder why NBC decided to stick with such a low rent affiliate.

What really shocks me is that WPCQ would show Real People instead of the network news. You don't see that these days. It was when Renaissance Broadcasting acquired the station from Group W in 1984, that they stopped preempting the network news.

Another surprise: Andy Griffith wasn't cleared in Charlotte at this time!

I wonder if the WB was offering Monday Night programming then with 'Lethal Weapon' airing on WXON? I suppose they could've as that was a Warner Bros movie IIRC.

Good idea culling this from the Toledo paper as the Detroit papers aren't part of the Google News archive. These posts of yours are interesting and I thank you for the effort you put into it.

Yes, particularly as that archive consists of image files and you are typing them all by hand. I have done that here from a couple of old copies of the Flint Journal I had lying in the attic. It was quite time consuming (and I type pretty well).

It was a syndicated offering. The WB didn't start on Monday nights until August of '96 with the premiere of "7th Heaven" and the short-lived "Savannah," which moved from Sunday nights.

Interesting. Thanks for that information.

Ahh, Morton Downey Jr. still 'blabbermouthing' across the nation!

WWCP is actually in Johnstown, not Steubenville.

I always found it odd that Washington, PA included WJAC and WWCP in their TV listings but not WBOY, WDTV, or WNPB.

WTAJ is not in the listings either.

No WNUV Channel 54?

Very interesting how these east coast stations aired New Year's Live! at 2-3am ET. Since NYL! was for the Pacific time zone, I thought only stations in PT (and maybe MT) could run it. It was aired on KIRO Seattle (UPN) and KNDO Yakima (NBC) that year, along with KTVF Fairbanks (CBS).

Here, marklungo, is what WNUV UPN 54 aired that day....

It appears the two CBS affiliates listed were not signing off even back then. Remarkable how many stations began the day with a prayer segment.

How times have changed.

Interesting lineup. Thank you for posting it.

Please post listings for Saturday 8/19/1972 and Sunday 8/20/1972.

Wheel of Fortune and Jeopardy weren't carried together then as they often are now. WPIX still had Independent Network News, which was syndicated nationwide to independent stations so they could offer a news product. PM Magazine was still doing well. Even Space:1999 was still showing up.

I don't know what that Pinceladas show on the Hartford CBS affiliate was. If it was a Hispanic themed show, this would strike me as somewhat remarkable for Hartford back in 1984. Also surprised that none of the syndicated daily business shows were showing up in the early morning lineups then. I don't think Jeopardy! returned to syndication until that fall. The CBS affiliate in Hartford wasn't carrying 'Press Your Luck' for some reason.

Thanks for putting this up!

Why would you think that? Hartford had a large Hispanic population even back in the '80s, even had a Spanish-language FM station for a while to go along with AMs in the area. I don't know what "Pinceladas" was, either, but a Hispanic-oriented show on WFSB wouldn't be a total shock -- although on a weekday rather than buried on a Sunday morning is something of an eye-opener. Its time slot would indicate that the target audience was kids up early to get ready for school (or preschool), so maybe it was a Mon-Fri series.

I wasn't aware Hartford had such a population then. Was it primarily Puerto Ricans?

Yes. I believe there are more Dominicans in the mix now. (I'm sure David Eduardo, if he stumbles upon this thread, will have plenty of facts and figures on this.) In Meriden, where I am, much of the sizable Hispanic community can trace its roots not just to Puerto Rico but to one town in Puerto Rico -- Aguada.

To my south is Wallingford, whose small Hispanic population is, rather surprisingly, Mexican -- many work at a chemical plant located there. There are a couple of Mexican taquerias, grocery and clothing stores in the town, but I have a feeling the Mexican population of the Hartford and New Haven areas as a whole is tiny. There's never been any attempt to serve it via radio or TV.

Interesting. I presume even the Fort Wayne times were in Central Time, which is what South Bend had even though Ft. Wayne was on Eastern time.

Thanks for researching and sharing.

I was working for WANE at this time (in engineering.)

But I was also a backup operator and probably running tape this weekend. (We had 4 people quit ops at the same time...better jobs.) I did more punching buttons than replacing them...

What? Nothing for the PBS Station? Are you kidding me?!

PBS station WFYI broadcasted PBS' 2000 Today all day long.

The ABC station looked a little lacking was that from the actual station or an error?

It wasn't an error. That day, ABC broadcasted a 25-hour program called "ABC 2000" to welcome the new millennium.

same as on BBC1 as well, we had a 30 hour programme called 2000 today to celebrate the millenium

Thank you.

Game 3 between the Dodgers and the Phillies, also known as Black Friday.

I've lived in Michigan but have never been to Ludington.

How stable would those analog signals from Green Bay have been after skipping across Lake Michigan?

Stable enough to remain on cable there until 2009! Ludington's been kind of an odd area when it came to cable carriage. Until the early 1990s, there were more Wisconsin signals seen on cable than Michigan signals (the balance changed when WGKI first signed on [WKBD was never carried in Ludington as far as I know]). More recently, Ludington missed out on most of the WB's run and the first eight years of the CW as then-Bresnan never picked up a WB affiliate after WGN dropped the network on their superstation feed. CW was finally added in 2014, via the Charter-owned CW+ affiliate. For those wondering, UPN and then MNT was (and still is) provided via WXSP.

Who did the baseball games for NBC?

Jim Simpson and Maury Wills did the 3.00 game while Joe Garagiola and Tony Kubek did the late one Telethons, like the one that aired on Channel 50 for CMN, are largely relics of the past now. Even MDA doesn't have theirs any longer.

I wonder if WJBK aired that Vendetta movie on Sunday afternoon because it had been pre-empted in prime time by something else?

Thanks for posting this.

I am guessing Vendetta was a Made for TV Movie (since the production date is also 1991)

Strangely I can't find anything on it at IMDB.

I believe WJBK had the Tigers contract in '91, and it's June so baseball season had started.

My guess is it's a repeat of a network TV movie that was pre-empted during the week.

The Tigers were still on WDIV at the time...if not for the NBA playoff game, 4 would have likely televise a Tigers game that afternoon. For the record, they played at Cleveland that afternoon; maybe that game was on the old PASS network.

and according to newspapers.com it WAS on PASS that afternoon

9:30 Top of the Heap

That was a very short-lived spin-off of Married, With Children starring a very young Matt LeBlanc.

Info on "Vendetta" is available on Wikipedia and shows up in a simple internet search. It was a syndicated mini-series.

Atlanta TV - September 18, 1990

This list comes from the Atlanta Journal-Constitution the day after the IOC announced that Atlanta would be the host city for the 1996 Summer Olympics. The listings didn't go any further than 2 AM.

[46]Movie--"Stella Dallas" (1937, drama)

Strange that channel 69 picked up only 30 minutes of Home from channel 2, and they passed on daytime Feud and Wheel from channel 5.

Channel 69 actually carried the CBS Feud for about a month, from its 7/4/88 debut, before suddenly dropping it. They ran the CBS Card Sharks at 4:30 immediately after as well as the show that replaced it, Now You See It. In 1992, Feud aired on WTLK/ch. 14 out of Rome, which was a crapshoot in reception since it was not required to be added onto Atlanta cable systems.

Wouldn't Channel 17's programs have begun at :05 and :35?

It may have, but the newspaper listing didn't reflect it.

I believe the show WGNX was running at 2:30 PM was The New Adventures of He-Man, not He-Man and the Masters of the Universe.

I believe the show WTXH was running at 2:30 PM was The New Adventures of He-Man, not He-Man and the Masters of the Universe.

To be sincere with you, the schedule on the paper said simply "He-Man", and I thought it was the right show.

That's what I figured. Thanks for writing back so quickly!

Jerry Springer was about at his apex that year. He moved to WXON in 2000, I think. UPN and WB were still developing a consistent prime time schedule and ABC was in significant transition itself. Longtime hits 'Coach' and 'Roseanne' ended in 1997 with not much to replace them. ABC made the regrettable choice of making Jamie Tarses its President which ended badly a few years later.

The trend towards a lot of infomercials for overnight programming still hadn't taken hold meaning there was actual programming to watch in overnight hours.

Spot-on about Springer...I was a high school junior around this time, and his show aired locally in Los Angeles at 11pm Monday-Saturday night, while competing against the news on KCBS, KNBC, and KABC. He often beat KNBC and KCBS in the ratings in that hour.

WDIV had all the Trash TV shows at this time (Maury and Jerry of course, and Jenny Jones was trashy at this time). Also, WWJ aired Letterman at 11pm at this time. Was it that same night's show or a day delay?

Letterman was the same day show. CBS fed it to WWJ early for the 11PM broadcast. (I lived in Detroit at the time. WWJ didn't have much going for it, but they could promote Letterman@11.)

12:35 Jenny Jones (women with natural breasts face off against females with implants)

Let's to to the Tale of the Tapemeasure...

What? No Radio-Canada?! Shame!

You asked me the same on a previous post, and I told you that The Toledo Blade only listed English-speaking stations.

Also, Radio-Canada never had any cable carriage on the American side of the border. AFAIK, the Blade never included another Canadian besides CBET.

The Detroit papers never included Radio-Canada in their listings AFAIK, but they did have (in their statewide listings) CBET, CHBX, CJIC, and CKCO (and possibly TVO).

I believe the show that WKBD was running at 8 AM was The Mask: Animated Series, not M.A.S.K.

That episode of Jenny Jones seems like a delightful tale.

Most of the Canadian stations near Detroit were either low-power or positioned farther away from Detroit. When I lived there, CBET/9 was the only Canadian station I could receive off-air.

I know TVO was on some cable systems, but it wasn't on mine.

Also notable is that so many stations were still signing off in 1994.

I don't think the 'New Dragnet' and 'New Adam-12' aired much after 1991. I haven't been able to find much of these first run syndicated series except for clips of the openings on You Tube. Some pretty decent prime time programming on Saturday. Networks weren't yet ignoring this night apparently.

1:00 NCAA World Series, Championship Game: Louisiana State vs. Bell

Bell? Who the heck was Bell, and why was it playing for the national championship?

I'm sorry. Louisiana State defeated Wichita State that day, not Bell. I don't know why Bell was listed in the paper.

It's amazing how much our TV changed in 3 years... You no longer see kids' shows on Ch.13 and now all news programmes start much earlier.

BTW the Avenida Brasil showing at 5 is not a repeat - it's the original showing before it got moved to primetime to compete with Tinelli.

You're right. I forgot that, but when I read your comment yesterday, I began to remember that I used to watch Avenida Brasil on those very hot and humid afternoons, but I stopped watching it in May 2014 when it moved to primetime.

Soap operas at night.... The horror

It's a horror depending what do you want to watch. These soaps are not full of drama, others are comedies or a mixture of both.

It depends of the country. Soap operas aren't as pervasive in Argentina (you have other choices even if you can't afford cable or a fast Internet connection) as they are in Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela.

I think about 80% of the country was in range of GDR TV. There was an area around Dresden that was not, which East Germans referred to as "the valley of darkness" or something. The color systems were not compatible (DDR = SECAM, GDR = PAL) so typically it was being watched in black-and-white.

7AM was probably the latest 'This Morning's Business' was cleared in any market. A great show produced by CNBC.

NBC still had the edge on Thursday primetime then with both Frasier and Friends doing well in the ratings.

WNEW / WNYW-TV in New York program schedules from 1978 to 2015

I was born in 1978 and i grew up watching WNEW / WNYW-TV alot especially when they became a Fox O&O station and started carrying WWF Wrestling from 1986 - 1996. Can anyone help me out with the schedule from April 5, 1978 to at least December 31, 2015?

Actually, WNYW bought WWOR in August 2001, and from after the events of 9/11, WWOR aired the Fox Kids weekday block until the network ended kids programming on weekdays.

I'll keep looking for more retro Fox 5 listings as well. It would be cool to see what Fox 5 aired on the day I was born ( April 5, 1978)

thanks

Thank you. Someone can make a similar thread for WWOR and other NYC OTA TV's listings 1949-2015. I wondered why WNYW moved WWF Superstars from Noon (since September 1990) to 1pm (briefly in 1994-95)?

toronto tv market. Most of the listed stations are from Buffalo, NY, Rochester, NY and a few cities in southern

I see where WTNH and WPRI's morning ABC line-ups don't match WCVB, who delays some of the shows. But there is error present. Scooby-Doo Classics (chs. 8 and 12, 9 AM, paired with Fonz & The Happy Days Gang) aired only four weeks at the start of the 1981-82 season as a stop-gap due to the Laverne & Shirley cartoon being delayed.

I wonder what "Championship Baseball" (1-3 p.m., WSMW Worcester) was.

see channel 30 of New Britain/Hartford carried the Connecticut Lottery Daily Numbers/Play 4 drawing then! Today, all in-state drawings and the multi-state Lucky For Life game (which Connecticut conducts the drawings for) are aired by WCCT-TV (CW) channel 20 of Waterbury/Hartford. Drawings have been aired there or by sister station WTIC-TV (FOX) channel 61 of Hartford since 1997. I believe the drawings are done at the WTIC-TV studios on Broad Street in Hartford.

Shouldn't that be "Broad Street of Hartford"?

NO WXNE-TV 25? How could you forget that channel?!

You asked for it, you got it! Here's the schedule for WXNE-TV from that day, taken from The Nashua Telegraph.

Sha-Na-Na still on the air along with the Pro Bowlers Tour on Saturday afternoon on ABC, where it remained until 1997.

Saturday morning still for cartoons. Not a bad time for TV.

Thank God! Sorry about that!

WKBD is from Detroit, not from Cleveland. Sorry about that.

Just amazing how crappy the Canadian television market was and remains.

Most all the offerings are from the U.S. and those Canadian offerings are dismal, at best.....

Surprised that stations from Lorain were included. I suspect this is because the Windsor paper also served Leamington and Ahmerstburg which, being near or on Lake Erie could've picked these up. I wasn't aware that the Star was included in the Newspaper Archive (albeit only to 1986). Appreciate that knowledge as well as the listings southferretti!

Detroit is on the Canadian border were there no listings of SRC, CTV, Global and CHCH printed?

The Windsor Star has the listings for the stations you've mentioned, not The Toledo Blade.

The Detroit Papers carried the listings for CBET (Channel 9 in Windsor) as well as listings for the nearest Global and CTV affiliates. However, the Detroit Papers are not available via a free archive.

The USA Today show WJBK was showing was intended as a weeknight news magazine and had been launched the previous fall. The fact that it had such a poor slot in a market as significant as Detroit foretold why it didn't last long. WGPR still showed afternoon movies at this point.

That the CBS Detroit affiliate was able to push the network's late night show (Pat Sajak) in favor of Arsenio Hall also foretold the quick demise of that show which wasn't really bad at all.

Independent stations were still independent at this point. An interesting time in TV. Thanks for the post!

WTVT used to air CBS-EN at 6:30pm? Hmm... I've always thought it was hour-long news at 6:00pm this entire time in WTVT's history.

It switched to 6:30PM right after expanding their 5PM news to a full hour, around 1989.

When did WTVT return the hour-long 6:00pm news format?

The same day it switched to FOX, on December 12, 1994.

CNN Headline News was still be syndicated in 30 minute blocks at this time.

I'm surprised the Gainesville and Jacksonville stations were included in the listings.

This night was probably when 'Caddyshack' made its Network TV debut for May sweeps. 'Archie Bunkers Place' still had another season to go after this one.

I know it's a Sunday but still I am a bit surprised that there was little local news. Must be a "Southern Thing" since I know many small local stations in Pennsylvania and New York even West Virginia that did offer Sunday local news even in 1982.

Maybe the other stations were afraid of the dominance of WIS and WCSC on their respective markets, even on the weekends.

One of the few stations that carried that 15 minute late CBS newscast at 11:15.

Maybe but I was thinking along the lines of the "day of rest" rule. A lot of TV and radio stations during the 60s and 70s when it came to Sunday they had a very limited staff ( sometimes only one person all day ) and the newsroom was closed under lock and key. By 1982 however the day of rest rule was slowly fading out and totally gone by the mid 90s I think WHSV and WSET both in Virginia were the last to do that. I worked at a country radio station in Virginia that had the day of rest rule too. Sundays I could read live on the air PSAs and lost dogs but NEVER the weather forecast or give a sports update. I felt that was strange. Today of course it would be budget cuts or whatever given as the lack of news on Sundays.

It wasn't until the late 1980s or early 1990s that more than one station broadcast news on Sundays in Charleston. Channels 2 and 4 had a very small staff, at least compared to what they have now. Even Saturday nights were limited. Only Channel 5 broadcast late news on Saturdays till about 1990.

There is an aircheck of a 1986 WCBD weekend newscast on YouTube, and there was a news anchor, Dave Christopher, and a sports guy, but no weather person. The anchor guy READ the weather. That would be unheard of today, with stations even in this market barely above 100 having 4 meteorologists.

That's interesting, since i remember WLOS/13 always having a newscast after college football from ABC. Of course when they got Baywatch, it became a moot point. I don't remember WYFF/4 doing a newscast after Notre Dame games, they'd jump into whatever show aired after. The same thing applied with WSPA/7.

Hmmm... I keenly recall WLNE signing off just like the other Providence stations around this time... Maybe it was only on weekends, I don't know...

I also thought WHLL/27 would be airing the episodes of "Another World" that WBZ/4 was bumping around this time, too...

1988 was a little before my time there, but when I worked there in the early 1990's we tape-delayed "Days Of Our Lives" by one day and scrounged other NBC programming bumped by WBZ. The next year we took ABC fare bumped by WCVB. So I suppose it's very possible they were picking off NBC programs in the late 80's.

WXME devoted basically its whole day to religious programming.

I memory serves me correctly, I believe they were owned by the Christian Science Monitor at that time.

Nope, it was owned by Pat Robertson's Christian Broadcasting Network. And the call was WXNE (X for "Christ" + NE for "New England"), not WXME. The Monitor was the original owner of WQTV, Channel 68.

I'm surprised that WBZ had their own pregame, instead of airing NBC's.

I'm guessing the Patriots show normally served as a postgame for 1 PM starts, and didn't typically pre-empt the network show.

Okay, I thought it might've been because it was Sunday, but that clears it up.

'This Week in Baseball' had ended the previous season. I think Fox was using 'In the Zone' as a pregame show. TWIB returned as Fox's Saturday pregame until ending around 2013 or so. PBA Bowling had ended its run on ABC in 1997 and CBS picked up some of it for the 1998 year.

Random notes:

Interesting seeing 'That's Hollywood!' was still turning up on KGO as filler in '86. Incidentally, Van Amburg did his last newscast for the station the night before.

Ted Knight had passed away just a few days before this date. The 'Ted Knight Show' listed here was the continuation under a new name of 'Too Close for Comfort', without the two daughters, as Henry and Muriel moved to Marin County. Pat Carroll co-starred as Henry's new boss, the editor-publisher of a 'small town' paper, for which Henry was the editorial cartoonist. The show had debuted in early 1986, with production delayed because of Knight's cancer diagnosis. Although he felt well enough to do a half-season, he faltered shortly after production had wrapped up.

The NBC 'Game of the Week' was the Dodgers(going nowhere that year) at the Mets(running away with the NL East on the way to a thrilling World Series win; they're still waiting for their next title).

Surprised that two independent stations were airing 'Battlestar Galactica' at the same time. I wasn't aware that 'Whiz Kids' with only a single season was ever offered for syndication.

The two independents were (and are) in different markets, but in the 80s, both were probably on many cable systems together.

Also kind of odd to see a Salinas station listed in this paper, which was based in Sonora.

For those curious about "Punky Brewster" airing on Saturday mornings (well, except on KRON)...that's the animated version. NBC in the 80s (and ABC too, with the Garry Marshall sitcoms getting their own animated series) had a penchant of having Saturday morning series featuring more of their family-friendly prime time stars--Gary Coleman, Mr. T, the aforementioned Punky Brewster, and ALF, whose animated companion series premiered in fall 1987. NBC even ran reruns of Fat Albert on Saturday mornings during 1989, while The Cosby Show was still at its height of popularity (while the reruns were still running concurrently in syndication in some areas).

Please post listings for Wednesday 8/27/1986.

I think that Tyrell Biggs fight was for a title.

Surprised that Solid Gold was cleared so late on a Sunday. That was usually a Saturday Prime Time show in most markets.

I'm guessing WTOG 44 aired Championship Wrestling from Florida in the 12 noon time slot.

WPXN/Pax TV NEVER ran the Cosby Show which were Bill Cosby episodes from NBC from 1984 to 1992. They ran the show just called Cosby which CBS ran from 1996 to 1999.

But What I remember back during that year, Their actual listings online listed at 5:00pm and 5:30pm as: "The Cosby Show", and the 1996 version actually ended in 2000.

In my opinion, 9/11 was the beginning of the end of the Regis version of Millionaire. I recall the show was back on the air less than a month after 9/11, and it was all celebrity editions, 4-5 nights a week. I got tired of that very fast.

Question: On 9/11, what did the PBS stations that were airing childrens' programming do? Canada's CBC, which has long aired childrens' programming in the morning hours, did not break into their programming with any coverage of the attacks until 12:00pm ET. They stated at the time they had broken into childrens' programming in 1986 with news of the Challenger explosion, and after an associated controversy they didn't want to make that mistake again.

...the last item shown on WABC-TV/7 before the WTC news broke on the station was a promo for that week's Nightline series of special reports on the political violence of the previous ten years or so in Congo that ran at the end of a spot set on Good Morning America. ...this is, in fact, what my own TV set (in Sharon, Wisconsin, 90 miles plus Northwest of Chicago) was tuned to that morning, when the first plane hit; I had fallen asleep in front of the TV during the previous late-night's rerun of The Odd Couple and I didn't wake up until halfway through Maury. Deciding everything was pretty much okeh in the world, I fell back to sleep for a while; what woke me was the absence of audio coming from the TV. I opened my eyes to see a Dish Network computer-generated visual message stating that WPIX-TV was experiencing "technical difficulties" in its feed to Dish. I then flipped over to KTLA/5 Los Angeles and immediately saw (about five minutes after the second plane struck) what those "technical difficulties" were. Ironically, KTLA's Lynnette Romero was visiting her parents in suburban New York that very morning and phoned in a report to Carlos Amezcua and Emmett Miller in Hollywood...

I believe they used the BBC feed.

This had to be a typo. What the listing likely was supposed to read was "News Special: NYC Mayoral Primary".

It would have been an hour of coverage of the primary results.

I still can remember where i was, in the school library, doing a project, and the TV was on WYFF/4 which was showing the Today Show. At first i was shocked that Today was still on past 8:55 but then i turned up the volume and i learned very quickly that a plane had crashed into the World Trade Center. i kept doing my project, but when the second plane hit, i dropped it immediately.

One thing was different from the Original schedule. KARE 11(and NBC) aired alternate programming as the 1997 NLCS ended in 6 games on Tuesday night. Not sure what they ran as I was pulling a double shift that night at my Radio job 6PM-6AM(but not actually on the air on the FM till 11 PM) I was running a high school football game that night as it was MEA Wednesday in Minnesota that week.

Presumably the "fall back" time change occurred that Saturday night and schedules returned to an Eastern time pattern. Fort Wayne and South Bend had not joined Indianapolis and Lafayette in delaying network programming during the DST months. It would all become a moot point a few years later.

11:00 Mystery! "Quiet as a Nun" (part 2)

The ABC cartoon that aired at 11:30 was not 'A Pup Named Scooby Doo', which came a few years later, but an unrelated Ruby-Spears series called 'The Puppy's New Adventures'.

Channels 8, 20 and 49 from New Haven, Waterbury and Bridgeport, respectively...sounds like this may have been from the Norwalk, CT area.

The listings are from The Hour -- that's the Norwalk newspaper. Fun fact: Connecticut has newspapers named The Hour (Norwalk), The Day (New London) and The Time (Greenwich).

What? No channel 41 or channel 47? And the channels in the 60s are missing!

As I said in the beginning, only a few stations were listed.

Thank you for posting this one. I thought it was interesting that indies 5 & 11 carried pre parade and Rose parade coverage (sans encores) like their LA counterparts did.

I imagine that WNEW used KTTV's coverage, and even they weren't co-owned at the time, WPIX probably used KTLA's feed. KTTV carried the Rose Parade from 1949 (they signed on the air that New Year's Day) to 1995; KTLA's sign-on date was 3 1/2 weeks after the 1947 parade, but of course they've aired it every year since 1948, and it's one of the last few localized non-news programming that they still produce--the others being the Hollywood Christmas Parade (at one point, at least here locally, it's prominence was right up there with the Rose Parade) and the L.A. Marathon.

Did KCNC really air that much news? And do you have any other listings for that day or week?

Before KCNC switched to CBS, they had nothing but newscasts and news related programs when not airing NBC programming.

True but to be fair KCNC's newscasts weren't always Denver related. Most were though but some were Colorado related like a top story was about Grand Junction or some mountain town like Aspen. I think KCNC in those days had a newscast just for Fort Collins too. KCNC-Colorado's News Channel.

Two years later the Denver stations played network musical chairs with all of the networks switching affiliates.

...and the switch in networks also there was a change in their newscasts too. Even though KCNC's the late Bob Palmer said "no change in news" there was. Once they switched networks the Denver stations not really covered news outside of Denver, Sure if there was a major news story they cover it but the days of a house fire in Aspen or car accident in Grand Junction they didn't bother even KCNC.

Any schedules for FOX or Independents from this date?

When KCNC became a CBS O&O, Denver got the normal CBS daytime lineup in order with Bold and the Beautiful at 12:30pm with Price is Right at 10am. At the same time, KMGH aired the entire ABC daytime schedule with Loving added back to the schedule. However, it was several years before they aired OLTL and GH in the correct order.
